

Locals fight to save Fingal from 4WDs

FINGAL residents are fed up with the constant damage caused to the Letitia Spit area by off-road vehicles and have warned drivers to stay away. As the number of 4WD vehicles which access the beach continues to grow so do the concerns of locals who fear this beautiful stretch of coast, which is home to an array of wildlife, is being destroyed. Acting Tweed Byron Aboriginal land council CEO Leweeena Williams (pictured) joined a group of 20 Fingal Head residents for a rally at the entry to Letitia Spit, where they erected a sign warning people to stay off or face fines.
